2020 Becky Prigmore

“Stefan Prigmore sounds like Jon Dee Graham ate John Prine for lunch. The end result feels like hanging out in your favorite bar, drinking a cold brew, watching the darkened stage and hanging on to each syllable of the song for twists and turns you can’t imagine coming...because you can’t.”

-Sara Hickman

"Perhaps Stefan’s greatest strength is his Prine-like ability to transport the listener to the bottom without transforming himself or the listener into a victim.”

-Americana Highways

"River/Blood is THE album you will remember for a lifetime."

-Kelly's Country

Stefan has been creating and performing music since his teenage years, following his father into the business in the same way he learned from his father in the woods and the river. The joy Stefan finds in the outdoors and the gratitude he shows on the stage are part of the same values that persevere in his music today. Stefan's sound is a rustic and approachable blend of Americana, folk, and roots. Audiences comment that his lyrics are stark and sincere, and his voice is dynamic and distinctive. He lists Bob Dylan, Guy Clark, Leonard Cohen, and Richard Buckner among his influences.

In 2018, Stefan was nominated for “Songwriter of The Year” by Fort Worth Weekly magazine; that same year he won a tour grant from the Hear Fort Worth initiative. In 2021, Stefan launched his Patreon page, where he shares new and unreleased music, wild game recipes, and stories from the woods and water. Stefan's Patreon Stefan was proud to announce the March 2021 release of his first solo, full-length album “River/Blood”, produced and recorded by Clay Parker. He now resides in far east Texas with his wife, Becky, and their ridiculous squirrel dog, Leon Rausch

2021 Carley Martinez
